27 Our Team
For all of us, the past year has been a series of unexpected events. For some of us, those unexpected events have caused quite a bit of hardship. It is no surprise, however, that the generosity of the Ohio Valley shines through during difficult times.

We started our fiscal year in July 2019 with much hope for the 12 months ahead. We worked and planned to continue as we always do – to help donors meet their philanthropic goals. In July we moved into our new building, which created much-anticipated excitement among the board and staff. We began a series of nonprofit educational workshops, called “On the Menu”, to encourage learning and networking. We were thrilled in January when our Women’s Giving Circle supported Wheeling Heritage’s “Show of Hands” to provide a large award to a female entrepreneur in front of a record crowd at the Wheeling Artisan Center. We were working diligently to assist area high school seniors with scholarship support.

March arrived and soon our work was turned upside down. Who could have imagined that we would be raising money to assist with a pandemic and its impact on our local counties? We quickly established an Emergency Impact Fund and created a process for grantmaking to organizations that were fraught with an increase in necessary services and a decrease in resources. As many of our local organizations had to cancel spring fundraisers, they were turning their attention toward making ends meet any way possible.

The response from our community was heartwarming. Donations large and small were made to help solve new and evolving challenges. Grants totaling nearly $200,000 were made to assist with food insecurity, healthcare, personal protective equipment, cleaning supplies, and other basic human needs.

We hope you will read the articles ahead to learn more about our work during the past year. We do plan to keep our Emergency Impact Fund up and running to assist with needs related to COVID as we hope to weave the word “recovery” into those future conversations.

If you are receiving this annual report, you likely contributed in some way to the Ohio Valley through the Community Foundation in the past year. For that we are grateful. Your community is grateful.
CFOV has been making philanthropy happen in the Ohio Valley since 1972, but the work has occurred in a variety of locations. For an organization largely based in permanence, it was always a priority to find a forever home. CFOV had always rented office space throughout the Wheeling area and renting became less than ideal as the Foundation grew in assets, staff and activities. Owning a building held a steady place on wish lists and many strategic plans, but as any hopeful property owner knows, it's not an easy process. Despite the challenges, CFOV remained committed to the idea and continued to save money for a purchase that would happen...some day.

Word soon spread that CFOV was on the hunt for a building. After many tours of buildings that didn’t quite fit the bill, a new possibility presented itself by way of a chance phone call. It was that phone call that put 1226 Chapline Street on the list. The building, longtime home of the Bachmann, Hess, Bachmann and Garden law firm, would soon be on the market.

Charles Nolte, a longtime friend of CFOV, stepped forward to support the purchase and needed renovations that would address accessibility. In May 2018, the Foundation purchased 1226 Chapline Street and construction started on the necessary renovations, including the addition of an elevator, soon after.

The process was exciting, but not without delays and revisions. A great construction and architectural team was on the project and made those bumps much easier to manage. With the scaffolding gone, the dust swept away and final touches complete, the CFOV team made the move in July 2019 and held a celebratory open house that September.

It was only fitting to designate 1226 Chapline Street as “The Nolte Building” to forever honor the significance of the gift that ultimately allowed this goal to be achieved.

The space is more conducive to the day-to-day operations of the Foundation. Conference space exists for community and nonprofit meeting needs. In fact, a nonprofit resource center is in the works for the building’s second floor. It’s amazing how many doors can be opened when you hold your own key!
A desert exists in the Ohio Valley but it’s not a hidden oasis that leaves residents parched. Rather, it is a sweeping food desert that makes it difficult to access healthy, fresh foods at affordable prices.

Since its launch in 2014, Grow Ohio Valley has been working to fill the gaps and ultimately quench the area’s thirst for a multi-faceted prosperous community featuring thriving local farms, improved access to high-quality nutrition across all income levels and a strong food economy.

The organization has been doing this work through mobile markets, school-based activities, urban farming initiatives and projects like FARMacy and community supported agriculture subscriptions.

CFOV has been a supporter of Grow Ohio Valley through grant awards and collaboration. Watching organizations succeed and evolve is an exciting and meaningful part of the work we do. Grow Ohio Valley’s leadership maintained a long-term vision to engage in a project that would bring something new to our area – and we know now it was worth the wait!

We are so proud to play a role in the growth that led to the long-awaited opening of the Public Market, Grow Ohio Valley’s year-round consignment market. The market opened its doors, located on the first level of downtown Wheeling’s Intermodal Transportation Center, in October 2019 to much fanfare and seemingly instant success. Breathing life into a vacant space, this unique venture offers incredible varieties of produce, staples, pantry items and a carefully chef-curated assortment of grab and go options. Programs exist to support and increase the food security of all, including opportunities for those using SNAP, WIC and similar vouchers. The market is a vehicle to further the goals Grow Ohio Valley holds so dear and serves as a perfect example of homegrown goodness!
The Amazing Raise enjoyed quite a following for many years! Hosted by CFOV and supported by local sponsors, the online giving day for Ohio Valley nonprofits generated excitement, involvement and needed funds. During its lifespan, the Amazing Raise generated nearly two million dollars for participating nonprofits, not to mention incredible exposure and new connections. As with any large project, the time came for careful reflection and study to see if it made sense to continue the event. After studying survey responses, giving statistics and donor feedback, it was decided the desired goals had been met and the time had come to transition. The decision was not easy, but it presented an opportunity for CFOV to serve Ohio Valley nonprofits in ways that would align more strategically with their needs and what we are best equipped to provide.

CFOV's “On the Menu” series was launched in May 2019. The quarterly lunch and learn gatherings provide opportunities for area nonprofit professionals to network while enhancing skills necessary for strong organizational success. As a grant maker and community leader, CFOV knows nonprofits could always use “more” – more time, money, resources just to name a few. Although the Foundation can’t fill every blank, relevant experts armed attendees with information, templates and ideas to strengthen their efforts. The learning opportunity supports the important work being done to make our communities better and stronger!

The series has featured speakers on grant seeking and grant writing, fundraising, planned giving and working with the media. We look forward to continuing the series to provide opportunities that reflect the needs and interests of our nonprofit partners!
As part of its commitment to supporting nonprofits in the Ohio Valley, CFOV's field of interest funds granted $27,022 to 12 organizations.

Field of interest funds were established by donors who had an affinity for an area of focus or location, rather than a specific organization, with the Foundation entrusted to identify beneficiaries. By design, field of interest funds can provide responsive opportunities which allows Foundation staff to use knowledge of community needs when making grant recommendations. Honoring the charitable intention and structure of each fund is required.

Given the challenges presented by the COVID-19 crisis, these grant awards supported organizations continually working to provide services and improvements across the Foundation's eight-county service area. And while not every field of interest fund grant was directed toward an organization directly facing COVID-19 challenges, the totality of the work represented the broad dedication, strength and resiliency for which the region is known.

Funds and Grantees:

The Jefferson County Fund is for the benefit of organizations in Jefferson County. The Ohio Valley Health Center received $400 to support its mission to provide healthcare to uninsured and underinsured Jefferson County residents.

Joseph & Marilyn Fraker Animal Care Fund is for the benefit of animal protection in Marshall, Ohio and Wetzel counties. The Marshall County Animal Rescue League, Ohio County SPCA and Wetzel County Animal Shelter Supporters each received $2,600 to support spay/neuter programs.

The Kenneth R. Dennis Fund is for the benefit of Ohio Valley organizations serving children in ways that encourage positive development. Crittenton Services received $2,400 and Oglebay Institute and the Wheeling YMCA each received $2,000 to support programming.

The Kathryn B. Snively Fund is for the benefit of Belmont County residents in need. The Salvation Army of Bellaire received $2,063 to support programs and services.

The Marilyn A. Collett Memorial Fund is for the benefit of general charitable purposes in Sistersville. The Tyler County Family Resource Network received $3,729 to support families and children through programs and services.

The MGC Fund is intended to support the needs of area pre-teen children. The Gabriel Project of West Virginia received $1,518 to support programs and services benefiting families with young children in the northern panhandle.

The Margaret Dankworth Memorial Fund supports historic preservation in Belmont County. The Bellaire Volunteer Fire Department received $3,100 to support ongoing infrastructure improvements to the city park, which is also home to several memorials and monuments.

The Williams Fund is for the benefit of organizations working to fulfill basic human needs of children. The House of the Carpenter received $2,012 to carry out this work through its programs and services.
When the calendar turned to 2020, it would have been difficult to imagine the world would soon be navigating a pandemic. Once coronavirus became a household word, it became clear our communities would be experiencing new needs in the midst of unprecedented times.

In response to the mounting challenges presented by COVID-19, CFOV created an Emergency Impact Fund to provide operating grants to organizations in the Foundation’s eight-county service area working to maintain services with decreasing means of support.

The fund presented an opportunity for the community to gather and grow through adversity while deploying resources in a responsive, unified and flexible way. Responding to extraordinary community needs is an essential element of the Foundation’s work and role in the Ohio Valley.

Our area’s nonprofit organizations seek to make the Ohio Valley better in diverse and meaningful ways. Many of those organizations serve vulnerable populations and provide opportunities to strengthen and support individuals, families and those in recovery. These same organizations rely on resources of all types that were diminishing in a crisis environment. The Emergency Impact Fund supports critical work in a variety of areas.

It’s no secret the Ohio Valley is home to a unique level of generosity. The Emergency Impact Fund grew quickly through contributions from individuals, fund advisors, corporations, private foundations and friends of philanthropy. CFOV participated in a statewide giving day hosted by Philanthropy West Virginia and raised an additional $32,750 for the fund!

Since its launch in mid-March, the Emergency Impact Fund has granted over $170,000 to 41 organizations. The fund will remain active so long as funds and needs exist.

As a community foundation, CFOV supports those in its footprint through a variety of tools - some provide support over time and others are more immediate. The Emergency Impact Fund represents both - a true product of support for the community from the community when times are tough.
A great example of homegrown commitment is found within the Boots Jarvis Memorial Fund. This fund, established in 2017, exists in tribute to its namesake and supports organizations in Paden City.

Minnie “Boots” Jarvis was born in Belmont County and raised by her sister, Mabel. Her extended family embraced this arrangement and made wonderful memories together. In fact, perhaps one of the earliest memories goes back to how Boots earned what ended up being a permanent nickname. A neighbor gifted a pair of boots to Minnie as a baby and her given name suddenly faded into the background! Those closest to her noted for the longest time they didn’t know her real name wasn’t Boots – talk about staying power!

Boots worked in retail, manufacturing (making light bulbs!), went to school and then landed in the funeral industry. She shared her business management expertise at locations around the Ohio Valley and ultimately settled in Paden City in 1991. She quickly fell in love with the small town’s charm and supported the community through the funeral home business, her church and membership organizations.

While those activities may suggest a very public persona, Boots was much more comfortable making a difference behind the scenes and regularly, albeit quietly, provided for those facing hardships.

After her death in 2017, Boots’ longtime friend and business partner felt compelled to establish something that would allow the love shared between Boots and her community to not be forgotten. A designated fund was established through CFOV for the benefit of Paden City organizations that broadly serve the community. Grants are made on an annual and rotating basis to the library, fire department, pool and senior center. These organizations benefit all Paden City residents by enriching and protecting quality of life.

Although Boots wasn’t one for the spotlight, friends and family feel she would be glad to know her commitment to her beloved Paden City can now last forever.
The Women’s Giving Circle partnered with Wheeling Heritage in support of two great projects! The January Show of Hands event, a community crowd-funding initiative, highlighted female entrepreneurs.

This edition’s focus was suggested by the Women’s Giving Circle and was further supported by a $3,000 grant to enhance the available prize. Corey Kidd’s “Bakery 49” was selected as the winner and she walked away with $11,350—the largest prize yet!

The WGC has also granted $2,000 to provide scholarships to female participants of Wheeling Heritage’s CO.STARTERS entrepreneurship program.

These projects are fantastic representations of the Women’s Giving Circle’s dedication to improving the lives of women and girls!
